

SEND CANADIANS TO MANOEUVRES

Suggestion That a Canadian Brigade be Sent to England Next Year.

Ottawa, Aug. 4.—An interesting military proposition is at present being urged upon Col. The Hon. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia and Defence, from different parts of Canada, to the effect that Canada should send a Canadian brigade to the English division and army manoeuvres in 1914.

Since the Minister took control of the military affairs of the Dominion there has been greater co-operation with the English authorities in military matters than ever before, and this scheme has been suggested to him as a forward step in still further solidifying the Canadian militia on the lines of the English soldiers in tactical matters.

The scheme as suggested is that the brigade should be composed of four battalions and a composite corps of cavalry, artillery, and other mounted troops.

1. One battalion of Rifle Grenadiers, composed of representatives of the different Highland regiments from all parts of the Dominion.

2. One battalion of Fusiliers and Guards chosen from the different Fusiliers and Guards regiments of the Dominion. This battalion composed of the representatives from the different rifle regiments of the Dominion.

3. One battalion composed of representatives of the other infantry regiments to be known as the "Scott" regiment.

4. One battalion made up of the representatives of the other arms of the service, cavalry, artillery, army service corps, and other units.

A Representative Force.

The brigade would be representative of all the different arms of the Canadian service, and those to be taken would likely be chosen by the recommendation of the officers of the regiment. The officers to be taken would depend upon the recommendation of the officer commanding the district, and would depend upon the interest they had taken in the regiments.

It is also proposed, in order that the brigade should be ready to go in for hard work on its arrival, that it should undergo a week's training in Quebec before sailing. The time required for the whole operation would not be more than four to five weeks.

A most interesting feature of the English manoeuvres in 1914 would be to observe the results of the experiment of a Canadian brigade taking part in manoeuvres with the English troops. This would be the first time that a Canadian brigade would be sent to England, but not the first time that a full Canadian regiment had gone across, as Sir Henry Pellatt, at his own expense, took the Queen's Own Rifles, together with his men to the English manoeuvres a couple of years ago. That experiment had splendid results.

It is likely that the Canadian brigade would be commanded by the Minister of Militia and Defence himself and a staff composed of distinguished Canadian officers.

EDUCATION NEEDED FOR LABOR CAUSE

Rev. Dr. W. H. Smith's Views on the Problems of Labor To-day.

In the Gleaner yesterday the reference to the remarks made by Rev. Dr. W. H. Smith at the public meeting held under the auspices of the Labor Council on Saturday evening were in advertisement.

Rev. Dr. Smith declared that education, rather than agitation, was what was necessary to bring success to the cause of the labor unions. The solution of the problem of the relation of the dollar to labor and the equitable division of the profits between capital and labor was the big question. His remarks were listened to with much interest, were frequently applauded and included statistics as to the number of men employed in various trades for the capital invested and also as to the percentage of increase in profits on investments in certain industries as compared with the increase in wages in recent years.

The Thursday Half Holiday.

The following is a copy of the resolution passed by the Labor Council at its last meeting relative to the Thursday half holiday as referred to in the Gleaner yesterday:

Whereas, we regard the granting of a weekly half holiday by the merchants of Fredericton to their employees as a boon to our fellow workers and a movement showing consideration for the part of employers for those whom they employ.

Resolved, that this Council regard the refusal of one large firm to grant the half holiday as practically an effort to defeat the same, and we desire to place on record our sympathy with those who are promoting the holiday movement, and pledge our support to those merchants who have so recently considered the welfare of their employees.

Free Ice Helps Suffering Poor in Big Cities

THE ICE FUND HELPS THE LITTLE MOTHERS

A hot wave seems to be sweeping over the city, and the suffering among the poor will be severe. The poor live in small, poorly ventilated rooms, where the hot air and the heat of the sun make the way in and across streets and courts. Ice would do them good, but they cannot afford it and they must suffer. In the east side of New York ice is given free to the poor. This is made possible by contributions from the people.

The Liberals Would Block The Ocean Freight Enquiry

Laurier Organ Quick to Snee at Government's Efforts to Settle Vexed Question—Whole Trouble Arose During Liberal Regime—Laurier Talks About Investigation but would not Proceed with it when the Time Arrived—Late Judge Mabel Held Strong Views.

Ottawa, Aug. 4.—The Daily Telegraph, the new newspaper in Montreal, which declared that it was founded to fight the battle of the people against privilege, lost no time in commenting upon the decision of the British Government to look into ocean freight rates. Did it express pleasure? It encourages this effort to find out whether too large a share of the money goes into the pocket of the ship-owning middle man, not quite. It found difficulties. Mr. Mabel, it said, for this is a subject to which the new Auditor General has paid attention—"has a lot to learn yet about transportation. He has certainly quite overlooked the fact that Canada has no jurisdiction over ships plying outside the three-mile limit. He also seems to be unaware that steamships are not compelled to follow the same routes, as trains are, but are free to pick and choose traffic routes of any of the Seven Seas. What Mr. Mabel will realize, when he has given the matter more attention, is that most of our ocean traffic is bound to and that so long as this is so, west-bound traffic is bound to be dearer. Ships cannot travel light for nothing. It will realize, too, that ocean tariffs are fixed on a world basis, and that even if Canada did succeed in forcing steamships to cut their rates, she has no guarantee that those steamships will stay with her, like the trains. They will go where they can get the most profitable business.

They don't like it.

In a word, the Daily Telegraph instantly threw cold water on the proposition—disparaged it, it called it a Mark Twain. It is so far from a proposal to investigate. The Daily Telegraph, the Simon-pure organ of Liberalism (and Montreal capitalism), the personal organ of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, at once prints the ship-owners' side of the case and attacks the proposal even to investigate.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Government showed signs of the same influence. In 1910 it had an idea of investigating the ocean freight rates, and made a suggestion to that effect to the British authorities. The British Government promptly and cordially agreed to help with an investigation. Then a strange thing happened. The Laurier Government dropped the subject like a hot potato. It had not the courage to go to the disavowal of the British Government, though that government twice called to know why Canada had dropped the project.

Now, why did the Laurier Government drop the idea of investigation so suddenly? And why does Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Montreal organ try to arms as soon as an inquiry is proposed? The answer is simple. This was in 1910 when the rise in rates had cooked protests from Boards of Trade and prominent merchants all over Canada. Sir Richard Duggan, now Commissioner of Commerce, was then British Trade Commissioner in Montreal. Mr. Duggan prepared a memorandum of the ocean freight question, observing that the rise in rates constituted an impairment of the British Preference.

On February 12 a vigorous and plain-spoken memorandum was forwarded by Chairman Mabel of the Railway Commission who pointed out that the land haul was only one-third of the cost of the whole journey and that if reductions of land freights were beneficial, reductions on the two-third distance

FIVE PERISH IN A QUEBEC BLAZE

Quebec, Aug. 4.—Seven people, Mrs. Joseph Paquet, her five children, and a woman living with the family, whose name is not yet known, were burned to death this morning at 2 o'clock at St. John Parish, Island of Orleans, some 15 miles east of Quebec.

The disaster was caused by the explosion of a lamp in the house of Joseph Paquet, river pilot, which set fire to the house that was soon a mass of flames.

Joseph Paquet and one child escaped. The fire declared itself towards 2 o'clock this morning. Neighbors perceived the flames escaping from the chimney of the house. The family awoke and escaped, but returned immediately to warn her husband and help him save his children. By this time the flames had invaded every room of the house.

The New Treatment For Hair Growth (Modes of Today)

Here is a simple way to banish hair or fuzz from the chin, lip or cheek without resorting to the painful and expensive electric treatment; Mix into a thick paste enough powdered delonix and water to cover the hairs not wanted and let remain for 2 or 3 minutes, then rub off and with it come every trace of hair after which wash the skin, and it will be firm, white and free from blemish. Delonix is the second application necessary, unless the growth is stubborn.

Applying proxin at bath-time will make your eyelashes grow long and curly, and if the eyelashes are thin, rubbing some on every other night for a few weeks. New hair will not get any proxin where hair is not wanted.

HON. MR. HAZEN IS EN ROUTE TO YUKON

Minister of Militia Will Go to Dawson City to Deal With Important Matters.

It is announced in the Victoria Colonist that Hon. J. D. Hazen is expected to arrive next Saturday, August 9, in Dawson City to deal with important matters. The Minister and his party, including H. S. Clements, M. P., are going to the Yukon, where they will first to Prince Rupert where Mr. Hazen is expected to visit a close study of the fishing industry in the Northern waters, and more particularly in the vicinity of the Queen Charlotte Islands.

From that point Mr. Hazen will proceed to Inuvik where he expects to arrive next Saturday, August 9. In Dawson the news of the Minister's visit is being received with great interest, and it is expected that as a result several matters requiring adjustment will be finally settled.
