

The Islam heaven described in the Koran, says the San Francisco Chronicle, is a place full of sensual delights. There the righteous recline on couches in a fair garden, drinking the delicious beverage supplied by the angels. They are surrounded by boys and girls who are obedient on by command or hourly with great eyes and yielding temperament. The life of the Moslem soldier was a wearing one, a life of constant warfare, of the heat of the sun, and with the prospect of such a divine oasis awaiting him he would almost reach to the gates of hell to get in. The Koran is full of alternate arousings and strife, and those who could drink the heavens and strike the greatest number of crushing blows would be the best. So the Koran priests place these gods in the Valhalla, gave them the beautiful Valkyries to be their waiting maids and attendants. So the Koran is a book to lead to these roystering immortals and to pass an eternity in chafing, snoring and quaffing merriment. It is an entirely different complexion rather to say heavens, for there are 28 of them, the gradual ascending scale of happiness being as follows: The not fighting the joyful, the change enjoying, the changing others arbitrarily, the assemblies Brahmas, the servants of Brahmas, the

[illegible]

since graduated from college, and are holding high positions to-day in the professions. Several were robust and healthy, although inheriting a frail constitution from a mother who died young. The annoyances and discomforts arising from indigestion were remarkably few, and without the interruptions of your time for reading, writing or social calls by a hungry child demanding attention that must not be neglected. I have been able to follow the preparations of even plain bread and butter for one, two or three children; the extra steps required for making a strong parent, these can make a servant a child, and the habit of bad when we consider the violation of the whole dietary system, and all the evils that stand waiting to give them a grip of their punishment that will be felt for years to come. I have fought against the evil and urged a better understanding of all laws of digestion, and what is quite as important, of indigestion.

Good Housekeeping

Making Her Happy.

jaw tied up stood in the doorway of Woodward avenue dentist the other day having come in from the country to have his teeth fixed. He was a little nervous about the decisive step. In this emergency a podiatrist who understood her man's dilemma halted and asked: "Toothache, me friend? You got it?"

"Two weeks. It ain't quite so bad as I thought," he said.

"Now, just this minute." "Let me see your place. If I'm ran out your tongue."

"It's all right," he said. "I don't know what she wants you; it is neuralgia in the face muscles; don't you have any tooth pulls?"

"What! Shan't I have one?"

"Yes, yes, my dear fellow, pull it out. It is a d—n good two!"

"Oh, sir, I'm glad—so glad. You don't know how I dreaded it!"

"Exactly. Keep your head down and close your eyes. Now, hold tight that strap that you had toothache." It was an awful lie, those who saw her happiness as she skipped out felt that the liar ought to be a medical.—Detroit Free Press

That the present style of dancing is less than a romp was clearly demonstrated at the college party given last week. A young lady had a most severe cut on her lip and another had her ankle dislocated while bruises were the rule rather than the exception.—Milwaukee Yencowen's News.

Isaiah V. Williamson, of Philadelphia, is reported to be the wealthiest bachelor in the United States. He has a fortune of $20,000,000 and gives away a large portion of it annually in charities. He is a well-dressed old gentleman, very modest and retiring in his ways.

s and Children.

Castoria cures Colic, Constipation,
Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Eruption, Kills Worms, gives sleep, and promotes rest.

Without injurious medication.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 NASSAU STREET, N. Y.